September 15, 2006	MDA #117	VOLUME 31	No. 37	PUB. Weekly

WEEKLY GRAIN COMMENTARY

Kevin McNew Adjunct Professor, University of Maryland

Grains drifted lower this week, with wheat prices suffering a 30-cent sell off. Liquidation of long positions by large fund traders and weak exports were the primary drivers for lower wheat prices. However, the fundamentals still remain friendly to wheat as 30-year lows in U.S. and world ending stocks combined with dry weather in South America and Australia could keep prices from faltering much further. In corn, prices were off 5 cents for the week, but the outlook remains promising once harvest is behind us. This week's USDA corn estimates and the likely direction of yield change on subsequent reports take away most of the supply worries for the 2006-07 crop year. No surpluses are likely, but supplies should be just enough to get by. However, soon the market will need to become more concerned about next year, when total corn utilization will be around 12 billion bushels. To cover this much demand, the market will need to buy about 5 million acres over this year's 79.4 million acres. In soybeans, the market continues to try and absorb large carryouts. But, the large supplies of beans have been a part of our market for months, and prices have already been influenced by these estimates. South America is likely to see a drop in soybean acreage with some estimates putting it as high as 10 to 15 percent lower. Also, if corn is going to buy an extra 5 million acres in 2007, then most of that acreage will come from soybeans which should help support new-crop 2007 prices. For now, however, the best marketing play in soybeans will likely be the LDP.

WEEKLY CROP WEATHER SUMMARY – September 11, 2006

USDA, National Agricultural Statistics Service, Maryland Field Office

Warm sunny days and scattered showers allowed farmers 4.8 days suitable for field work for the week ending September 10, 2006. Sunshine and adequate moisture provided good growing conditions for second crop soybeans. A majority of the corn crop is drying down and 67 percent has matured. Early maturing fields are being harvested for grain. Harvesting of corn silage is progressing nicely at 79 percent harvested. This is 18 percent more than last year and 29 percent more than the five-year average. Over 30 percent of the soybeans are turning color and 13 percent are dropping leaves. Hay supplies was rated 8 percent very short, 14 percent short, 74 percent adequate and 4 percent surplus. Pasture is rated 8 percent very poor, 26 percent poor, 36 percent fair, 27 percent good and 3 percent excellent.
